Our Story

Restoring the heart of your home

For over two decades, our family business has been built on a simple belief; falling back in love with your kitchen shouldn't mean starting again.

A full kitchen refit is disruptive, expensive, and in many cases unnecessary.

Your surfaces may be worn, faded, damaged or simply old fashioned, but the chances are your cabinets don't need replacing.

So we pioneered a smarter, more sustainable, cost-effective alternative. By blending bespoke craftsmanship with a design-led approach, the idea of Intelligent Restoration was born.

Often imitated, but never replicated, this approach has allowed us to transform thousands of dated, tired kitchens into spaces that are loved again.

We are proud to be a family-owned and family-run business. From our humble roots in the Midlands to becoming a national specialist, our core values have remained the same. To provide exceptional service, value for money and give you a kitchen that looks better and works better, right down to the tiniest detail; a kitchen as unique as you are.

Because we know that customer satisfaction begins and ends with quality service.

Welcome to Intelligent Restoration

Kitchen makeovers, changing doors, drawer fronts and worktops, have been around for some time now. Intelligent Restoration is much more than just a makeover.

Intelligent Restoration explores options and possibilities, improved functionality and smart space optimisation to make every inch of your kitchen work harder and more efficiently.

Our designer will start by looking at your kitchen, discuss with you what works, what doesn't, and how the space could be improved to make your life easier.

They'll give you expert advice on colours, styles and finishes. Of course your kitchen might work well for you just as it is and you only want a refresh with new doors and drawer fronts and that's fine too. Whatever you choose and however much you choose, it will be designed, manufactured, installed and guaranteed by us. With care.

Responsibly sourced wood

We prioritise materials sourced from responsibly managed forests, with supply chains supported by recognised certification schemes, including FSC® and PEFC®. By choosing materials from responsible sources, we support sustainable forestry, biodiversity and the protection of natural resources.

Committed to the future of the planet

By retaining existing cabinetry rather than sending perfectly good materials to landfill, our process minimises waste and protects the future of the planet.

Reducing carbon footprint

Local UK manufacturing combined with an efficient method of transforming kitchens drastically cuts transport emissions and manufacturing energy compared to full kitchen refits.

Family focussed

Unlocking space for a growing family

About the restoration

The Brief

Louise and Mike were looking to make their generously sized kitchen into a more family-friendly space. Previously two rooms, the large kitchen had worked well when they bought the house 10 years ago but now with three young children their needs were very different. They wanted an area where the family could spend time together whilst food was being prepared and critically Louise needed more storage to optimise and organise the space.

The Solution

The kitchen had good quality cabinetry and the basic design worked. We suggested a breakfast bar on the end of a run of units which created some separation of the space and a seating area where the children had the option to sit and play whilst food was being prepared and also doubled up as a desk when Mike needed to work from home. A pull-out larder unit, a 'magic corner' in the corner base and a cutlery tray to provide much needed organisation and better use of space were all part of our designer's recommendations.

What we did

The existing cupboard doors and drawer fronts were replaced from our New York and Manhattan ranges. Combining Almond wall unit doors and Galvano on the bases gave a modern and stylish feel to the space, complemented with warm gold handles from our upgraded range. A quartz worktop completed the look, together with a hot water tap. The couple also chose a new oven, hob and hood from Samsung's latest Smart range.

By moving the oven to be next to the hob, the worktop space by the breakfast bar was opened up and the corner space behind the breakfast bar created a cosy spot for Labrador Elsa's bed.

Louise and Mike's verdict....

"We are thrilled to bits with the suggestions Kitchen Restoration made and the quality of the work carried out. It took four days to transform our lives and cost half what we'd been quoted for a new kitchen. Meal preparation is more organised and less stressful and we have a versatile space where the family can be together. I can't believe it was so easy."

Refined evolution

Keeping Amy's kitchen flow, while elevating the style

About the restoration

The Brief

When Daniel approached us he was looking for a brighter, more fashionable look for their family home. The layout worked for the family, Daniel, his partner Amy and their two teenage children but the dark doors that didn't close properly and heat-damaged worktop made the space feel old fashioned and worn, not somewhere they wanted to welcome their friends and entertain.

The Solution

The house had been a new build when the couple moved in 15 years ago and the units were in good condition, apart from the sink base which was water damaged following a leak. Our designer suggested a straightforward doors, drawer fronts and worktop refresh, and replacing the water-damaged sink base with a bespoke unit incorporating a custom-fitted base tray to protect against future damage.

What we did

We replaced the old doors with a balanced dual palette of Indigo on the back wall and Dusky Pink on the island from our Boston range, all accented with beautiful gold bar handles. Amy chose Carrara from our range of quartz worktops and we extended the island worktop to create a breakfast bar area. Simple and uncomplicated, this transformed the kitchen into a bright design-led space, creating a stunning space for informal dining and entertaining.

Daniel's verdict

"A friend told me about Kitchen Restoration but I didn't believe this would be so easy. So much choice, great quality and lovely people to work with. Our designer Kevin listened to what we wanted, showed us some samples and then used his visualiser to show us what the kitchen could look like with our choices. This has completely changed how we feel about the kitchen, it's welcoming and a great entertaining space."

"...it now feels fresh, modern"

Tailoring what works

A considered, targeted refresh

About the restoration

The Brief

James, a widower in his mid sixties, came to us when his two teenage children had left for university. He was looking for a bright, modern refresh where he could entertain friends and welcome family visits. His existing kitchen was functional but his old fashioned painted doors were dark, chipped and didn't close properly.

The Solution

James had granite worktops which had been well cared for and he was keen not make too many changes so our designer focussed on a minimalist look to avoid anything over-dramatic and suggested some storage units from our Smart range to make cupboard contents more organised and accessible for a mobility issue.

What we did

Leaving the existing worktops in place, we replaced the doors from our Paris range in beautiful Smoke Green, complemented by sleek matt black T-bar handles. James also chose some Easy Down products from our range of Smart storage solutions which improved accessibility in his wall units (not pictured). His family bought him a new blind to complete his new look!

James' verdict

I can't believe this is my kitchen. My units were custom made odd sizes and I didn't think it would be so easy to get new doors. And the Easy Down products mean all my cupboard contents are organised and accessible- great for my bad back. The Kitchen Restoration team were friendly and professional, they even took the rubbish away for me. I'm telling all my friends.

Compact living, contemporary style

A modern kitchen transformation in the heart of the city

About the restoration

The Brief

Ali had just bought his first home, a bright modern city centre apartment which had previously been rented to students and the kitchen badly needed attention. Ali thought it would need replacing but wanted to look into a more cost-effective and less disruptive solution first.

The Solution

Firstly we established that damage was limited to surface areas and the units were still sound, which they were. Ali was looking for a bright, clean look, easy to maintain and our designer suggested a neutral gloss door complemented by a similar colour worktop that would blend seamlessly into the adjoining lounge area.

What we did

Ali chose an Acrylic Almond gloss door with a stainless steel handle, and a laminate worktop to completely refresh the kitchen. We also replaced the heavily used appliances and fitted a new fridge, oven, hob and extractor.

Ali's verdict

"I expected to need a complete new kitchen so it was amazing to find the units were good and I could get the look I wanted with new doors, drawer fronts and worktops. I'm a keen amateur cook and the money I saved meant I could treat myself to better quality appliances. High five for the fitters who walked up and down four flights of stairs as the lift was broken!"

"...I'm so proud to entertain in my new kitchen"
